A Word of Advice

The United States Government is using large quantities of Anthracite Coal which heretofore has been furnished the domestic consumer. This condition will last as long as the war continues, for this reason every consumer who can use soft coal should do so. There are some heating plants and stores that must have hard coal but a great many furnaces are well adapted to use the bituminous varieties. Unselfishness and sacrifice at home will help to win our battles over in France.

Soft Coal can be had this summer and every consumer that can use it should depend upon that kind and get a supply at once.
